Rich is a television drama director based in London. Equally at home masterminding large-scale VFX-heavy stunt sequences and handling intimate moments of performance, he has injected his unique energy into many genres from coming-of-age comedy to period epics and sci-fi thrillers. His creative yet pragmatic approach has delivered entertaining cinematic episodes within a broad range of budgets. Every series he has launched has been recommissioned, while his premieres and finales regularly receive five star reviews in the press. His background as a Creative (conceiving, directing and editing advertising campaigns for the BBC) means he's well-versed in all stages from development to marketing and is brimming with original ideas at every point in the process.

When he's not on set or in an edit suite, Rich can be found writing his own scripts, playing the piano and saxophone, skiing and skippering a yacht. But rarely all at the same time.
